CHANGES IN FACULTY

Meeting of Trustees of Baptist Female University.

NEW TRAINING SCHOOL

et Will Be Located Somewhere in the Western Part of the State-Union County Returned Part of School Fund Money.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) RALEIGH, N. C., April 15.—The trus-less of the Baptist Female University were in annual session here to-day and made several changes in the faculty for the coming year. Mrs. Anderson, of Ar kansas, was elected lady principal, in the stead of Miss Skelton, resigned. Miss Howman, of Arkansas, was elected to the chair of elecution, in the stead of Miss Sydnor, resigned. Miss Perry, of the chair of Latin, was granted a year's leave of absence to pursue her studies at Har-vard, and Miss Lannean, of Wake Forest, was chosen to fill her chair during that time. Judge R. W. Winston, of Dur-ham, and Rev. W. C. Tyree and Rev. J. H. Massic were added to the Board of ham, and Rev. W. C. Tyree and Rev. J. H. Massie were added to the Board of Trustees.

The Baracca Class, of Tabernacle Baptist Church, hold elaborate ceremonies tonight for the installation of new officers. Mr. R. W. Simms is teacher, and the class is composed of 125 young men. It is the largest and most remarkable class of young men in a Raleigh Sunday-school.

The Superintendent of Public Instruction has issued a call for the meeting of the trustees of the Appalachian Training School, provision for the establishment of which somewhere in the extreme western part of the State was provided for by the last General Assembly. The meeting will be at Blowing Rock, May 16th. At this meeting the location of the school will be determined upon. The trustees are from Alleghany, Wilkes, Caldwell, Watauga, Mitchell and Yancey counties.

A remarkable instance has occurred in the matter of the apportionment of the second $100,000 for making all school terms at least four months, Union county asked for $2,540 for this purpose. The Superintendent of Public Instruction scaled the amount thirty per cent, reducing it to $2,067, in scaling all counties, so that all asking all could receive a proportionale part, there being not enough money to allow all that was represented as being necessary. Now Union county returns to the State 19840, which they report now that they find they do not need to bring their schools up to the limit.

Near Reidsville.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

REIDSVILLE, N. C., April 15.—The trial of John Broadnax, the murderer of Sidney Blair, was begun to-day. There was great difficulty in selecting a jury, on account of nearly everybody having formed and expressed an opinion. It was nearly 12 o'clock before the jury was completed. The star witness was Miss Sallie Walker, who was wounded in two places. She proved an excellent witness, All the witnesses were examined, and at $ o'clock court adjourged until half-past seven. The evidence was conclusive against the negro, and the defense will make a stubborn fight against great pdds.

The acts establishing the North Carolina and Virginia commissions being similar, Mr. Wysor thought it best to look into the modus operandi of the North Carolina office. Chief Cierk Frown, of the office here, devoted the day to Mr. Wysor and his investigation.

YOUNG MAN DROWNED

Ventured Too Far Out in Stream and Was Washed Down.

Mannoy's Mill, in the Yadkin River, near here, on Monday aftersion, has not yet been found. He was a popular young min and had been in the emiloyment of the Union Copper Mine for four years as bookkeeper. His home was in Honderson, N. C. Strong afforts have been made to recover the body, but as yet those have been insuccessful. He met his tragic death as the result of venturing too far out in the river. He was warned about the danger of venturing too far out in the river. He was warned about the danger of venturing below the island on account of the strength of the current. At first he took as party of friends in the boat and returned in safety. Then he went out alone, and, venturing too far, lost control of the boat, and was swept into he current. His companions called to him to hold to the boat and they would resoue him, but he became excited and let go his hold, and attempted to swim to the shore, and was swept down the stream. He was a member of fthe Elks Lodge of Gallsburg.

RETURNED AFTER YEARS

Relatives of Capt. Gornell at Greensboro Receive His Watch from North. GREENSBORO, N. C., April 15.—Over forty years ago, Captain Henry C. Gorrell, of this city, of Company E, Second North Carolina Regiment, was killed in the battle of Seven Pines. On his body was an old English gold watch and testament, presented by his sister, Mrs. Annie Farris, with an inscription: "To my dear brother, Henry C. Gorrell, from his sister, Mrs. Annie Farris, Greens-my cear ordiner, Menry C. Gorrell, from his stater, Mrs. Annie Farris, Greensboro, N. C."

Yeaterday, Mr, John B. Farris, nephew of Captain Gorrell and son of Mrs. Farris, received by express from Mr. George A. Bringham, of Charlestown, Mass., the watch in perfect order, that was taken from Captain Gorrell's dead body nearly half a century ago.

A few days after the battle, Mr. Bingham, a member of a Massachusetts Regiment was strolling over, the battle-field and finding the watch and testarfient on a dead body, removed them. The watch subsequently came in possession of a citizen of Maine. As the years went by, Mr. Bingham thought more and more of the incident, laving never forgotten the name and address of the dead officer, which he found in the testament. Finally he looked up the owner of the watch and succeeded in recovering it. He then wrote the clerk of the court here enquiring about Captain Gorrell and Mrs. Faris. Mr. Farris was put in communication with him, with the result that yesterday he received the watch.

Mr. Bingham expressed deep regret at

A Handsome New $30,000 Scientific Building for Washington and Lee.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
LEXINGTON, VA., April 15.—A wealthy banker and philanthropist of Chicago, whose name is withheld by President Denny, has offered to construct at Washington and Lee University a handsome building for the department of physics and engineering. Mr. Theodore Carl Link, an architect of St. Louis, has been at the University for two days arranging for the site and gathering data for plans and specifications. While the cost of the building could not be ascertained, it is thought to be over $50,000, and it is understood that the structure is to be modern and well equipped. The location will be to the rear of the present academic group, fronting on the railroad. It is the intention ultimately to construct a series of new buildings, facing in the same direction, so that the present rear will be transferred to the front. Plans will be made to effect these changes, embracing driveways and grading through the rear campus. It is believed that this improvement is most significant for the progress of the University. ton and Lee University a handsome build-

MATHEW WHALEY'S GRAVE

Covered With Flowers by Williamsburg School Children. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

WILLIAMSBURG, VA., April 15 .- Fo the first time in nearly two hundred years the grave of little Mathew Whaley has been wreathed in flowers by the children who attend the school endowed in his memory. In 1705 this little lad, the only child of his widowed mother, was laid to rest in the tomb of his father. The inscription marking the spot runs; "Mathew Whaley lies interred here, "Mathew Whaley lies interred here, Within this tomb upon his father, dear." Forty years Mary Whaley lived alone. Dying, she left a bequest to the parish of Bruton for the endowment of a parish school, which should be called the "Mattle School," in memory of the child she had loved and lost. This school is now a model school, and connected with William and Mary College.

Under the auspices of the present very efficient teacher, Miss Davis, the pupils of the school on Thursday last carried their tribute of gratitude to the grave of the little boy whe died so long ago.
